

A Strong Woman...

*Is as strong as the hands that uplift her in prayer.
Is as strong as the knees the bend to pray for her.
Is as strong as the eyes that shed tears in her honor, in her remembrance, for her sake.*

A strong woman is as strong as the women who catch her when she falls.

*There is no weakness- it's all a matter of a paradigm shift.
It's a trick of the eye- it's depth perception.
A simple miscalculation or an undefined point of reference.
An unclear definition.
A misdiagnosis.*

*In tears we are strong; In sadness we are strong; In happiness we are strong;
In depression we strong; In anger we are strong; In joy we are strong; In pain we are strong; In humility we are strong; In submission we are strong; In faith we are strong*

by definition we are strong.

*I am as strong as the hands that lift me up in prayer.
I am as strong as the knees the bend to pray for me.
I am as strong as the eyes that shed tears in my honor, in my remembrance, for my sake.*

this time we must remember that we are strong

*We are as strong as the hands that life us in prayer.
We are as strong as the knees that bend to pray for us.
We are as strong as the eyes that cry tears for our happiness.*

A strong woman is the strength of those who catch her when she falls.

I am a strong woman.

©2014 Tamara Lea Redfern